Capital Ideas Online

It is said that the foundation of great investing and long-term wealth creation is reading widely, across disciplines and being able to connect the dots.

In this context, Capital Ideas Online is the perfect resource, with an exhaustive list of thought-provoking reading material across a diverse range of subjects – economics, behavioral finance, stock markets, management and many more.

Their “Weekly Read Compilation,” which is a weekly compilation of the best articles which the Capital Ideas team has read during each week, is particularly useful.

The forum has archives of in-depth interviews with legendary investors like Chandrakant Sampat, Rakesh Jhunjhunwala and more.

A perfect resource to develop multidisciplinary and in-depth thinking.

Fin Bloggers

Many financial experts write blogs to help others, to educate others, to present their view but the problem for a retail investor or the person who seeks financial knowledge is to read different blogs he/she has to go to different URLs resulting loss of time and this turns out to be a hassle.

Many a time we might not know someone who writes astonishing blogs.

Finbloggers brings together most of the financial blogs at one place through its mobile app.
